Native American Indian Design Week- Design and create a poncho or a kaftan inspired from the Southwest. Each designer will also explore fabrics and symbols from Navajo Indian Tribes. For our textile art project, the designers will learn how to make or use a stencil print for their complementing accessories.

It's up to you; you're the designer!

Our students, Fashion Designers, will start with the sketch (croquis), technical details, choosing and rendering the fabric, learning the proper way to make a pattern, including measuring each other, understanding the importance of this process and the fit of the garment. They will learn how to pin and sew using a sewing machine. Then, they will sew the entire garment including the final fitting. Finally, on the last day of our class, we will hold our Fashion Show. During our fashion summer camp weeks, we add Fashion challenges for our designers to explore their inner most fashion taste and skills. Our designers team up with other designers for this quite unique and fun experience. No sewing experience necessary. All fabric, supplies and use of the sewing machines are included.
